MISTAREN IDEAS ABOUT SHIPPING

The GAZETTE has held the position for the last year that as long as we can subsidies, and expend vast sums in fostering lines of our own, which must compete at the ruinous rates now prevalent. We reprint a somewhat long, but very useful article, the doors should open outwards. from the New York Shipping List on the subject. It is worth reading. It is a common thing for some of the daily newspapers, in discussing the decadence of the American merchant marine, to refer to British shipping as being in a prosperous condition, and as an example of what ours is doing good work. But a regard tion, and as an example of what ours might be, were American citizens accorded the privilege of purchasing ships in the cheapest markets. Now, while Great Britain is by far the largest ship owner in the world, it is a notorious fact that the condition of her merchant marine is very far from being in a prosperous condition. In fact, British ship owners are even worse off than the American, for the reason the finest educational edifice in American for the reason the finest educational edifice in American. British ship owners are even worse off than the American, for the reason that the losses on had business of a large fleet are necessarily greater than on those of a small one. A pamphlet recently issued by a London ship owner throws a flood of light upon this subject. In it we are told that the tendency to substitute steamers for sailing vessels, which has been developed. sailing vessels, which has been develsailing vessels, which has been developed, more particularly since the Suez Canal was opened, has induced excessive building, and the over-building has produced all kinds of unhealthy attempts at obtaining credit on ships along with a most serious depreciation in their vilue; and this too, in spite of prolonged depression of commerce. Ship-building on the Clyde and Tyne, it is added, went on States. Prof. I upon speculation long after the rush of orders had closed. Yards were kept going on speculative work, always in the hope that trade would revive. This led to forced sales, and men of little or no means easily became ship owners by granting bills with three and even four years to run in payand even four years to run in pay-ment. Vessels thus purchased entered recklessly into competition with those already affost, freights fell to an extremely low level, and losses have thus accumulated on all hands, till the thus accumulated on all hands, till the strongest companies and private firms have in many cases had enough to do to maintain their position. Yet the building goes on. In 1877, no less than 658 vessels of 521,523 tons register were built; in 4878, the number was 649 vessels of 574,819 tons register; and in 1879 (the complete returns are not ret in) it is estimated that are not yet in) it is estimated that fully 450,000 tons will have been produced. A small amount of this enormous construction of tonnage has been for account of other countries, and some of it to meet the necessary re-quirements of the large steamship companies, as well as to to take the porations by whom they are sustained.

In view of the enormous extent to which the ocean-carrying trade of the United States in foreign commerce is monopolized by vessels built and owned abroad, it is a matter of surprise that there should be so continuous and determined an effort to grant these ves-American registers of foreign memberee far as foreign commerce is concerned, American registers would confer upon these foreign vessels no privileges that are not open to them now. They could run no more cheaply; they would not be likely to carry any more American officers or sailors; and it is doubtful if they could secure to the United States any more of the profits of the carrying trade. Still, the immense interest exhibited in this question, especially by British vessel-owners and builders, shows that some rich reward must be in view sufficient to warrant so persist-ent an effort to manufacture public sentiment to influence the action of ress. What is evidently aimed the agitation of free trade in , is the repeal of the navigation at by the agitation of free trade in ships, is the repeal of the navigation laws, thus throwing open our coast-wise trade to foreign tonnage. While there is no evidence of any desire on the part of Americans to purchase foreign built ships of any description, even when they are at liberty to do so, it would probably do no harm to accord them that privilege, provisionally, or under proper restrictions; but omy wast domestic traffic should be guarded with the same jealous care in the future as it has been in the past. For if the vast fleet of foreign vessels that annually reach our shores in ballast, seeking freight, had the privilege of engaging in the coasting trade, it must be evident that their chances of employment and profit would be greatly increased, while the chances of American vessels would be correspondingly diminished. Our navigation laws are autiquated, and are doubtless susceptible of improvement in many respects, but any change that may be contemplated should clearly not comprehend the throwing open of our coastwise trade to foreign competition.

Franktown in a Blaze of Excitement.

$85,000 Buried By a Highwayman Efforts to Find the Sack of Money-What the Spirits Say About the Matter-History of the Search.

For the past few days Franktown has been the scene of a great excitement over a supposed hidden treasure. Men, women and children have been hunting in the mountains for it. The story about the treasure has been known here for the past twenty-five years. It is as follows: Some time in 1850 r man was tried and convicted of murder. Before his execution he made a confession, of which this is the substance:

I had been a highway robber on the plains for years and had accumulated eighty-five thousand dollars. I started back to California to take a steamer Mormon mill, with the intention of

Your correspondent has had an interview with Mrs. Bowers, "the Washoe Seeress," and she says there is treasure hidden somewhere near Franktown. As she was here in 54, she remembers well the story about the treasure. But strange to say, when she calls on her spirit friends, none of them are able to tell her the exact locality of the deposit. Even her deceased husband and brother, whom she claims to be her constant companions, say they knownothing about it. The spiritual Mr. Bowers tells her that if he did, he would be sure to tell her, as he knows

FINDING THE HOLE.

Maurice May had an idea that he knew where the treasure was hidden. So about 5 o'clock last Sunday morning, he and a confidential friend started out with pick and shovel to become suddenly rich. They at last reached behold, there they found a hole about four feet deep, and all that remained of the treasure was a dollar and a half, lying on the ground near the hole, an nce that some one had been be fore them in the search. On the way ome Maurice looked so disappointed to think that some of our Franktown Christians had robbed him of Eighty-Four Thousand, Nine Hundred and Ninety-Eight Dollars and fifty cents that a favorite dog failed to recog him. The dog bit him and May the animal. It is hinted around that May suspects Judge Harcourt and Constable Frank Wooten of robmay soon be expected.

There are many at the age of thirty and sixty who are troubled with too irequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urnary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found, and some small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin milkish hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Solid Abyssinian Gold Watch

The above offer is genuine, although at first sight you would consider it impossible. We will explain: Since we first established our business here, March 1st. 1878, we have paid particular attention to the buying of Bankrupt and Auction lots of Jewelry and Watshes often buying at as sow as one-tenth their value, and in no instance have we paid over one-sixth the manufacturers' price. Since starting we have slways been able to dispose of these goods in Chicago and through our regular customers throughout the country at nearly regular prices, as fast as we could procure them, but owing to the large number of failures among the heaviest dealers and mannfacturers throughout this and other countries during the months of June, July and August (the time when the jewelry business is stagnant), we have new on hand an immense stock of the most desirable goods we have ever handled, and which we have bought at lower prices than ever before. In order to dispose of this entire stock in the most speedy manner possible, and make room for new ones which we shall continue to buy, we have hit upon the following novel plan:

We propose to give you a list of the most desirable of these goods, giving opposite each

DISSOLUTION

-OF-Co-Partnership.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the partnership heretofore existing under the name, style and firm of J. W. SHAEFFER & CO., is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The business of said firm will be hereafter con- IN ducted and carried on by JOHN W. SHAEFFER, who will receipt and liquidate any and all indebtedness due and owing by said firm. JOHN WERNER SHAEFFER JULIUS KRAEMER.

Dated, San Francisco, Dec. 29, 1879.

In reference to the above, I desire to notify my customers that I shall carry on the manufacture of Cigars as formerly, on the old premises, and under the old name of J. W. SHAEFFER & Co. My aim in the future, as in the past, shall be to give each, and all my patrons a fair and full equivalent for their money, only asking in return promptitude in remitting the values I have given them at the time agreed. It will be my effort to make my long experience (unexcelled as a local manufacturer) more than ever profitable to my customers, by more than usual care in the selection and treatment of the Tobacco, and in nicety of execution in manufacturing. shall adhere strictly to the determination announced by my firm some months ago, not to employ drummers to effect sales, but rely solely on the merits of my goods. and give all the advantages of reduced expenses to my patrons in lower prices. I shall, however, visit, if possible, personally, or by my former salesman, B. F. Armstrong, all my customers during the year, to ascertain their views, and profit, if I can, by the experience they have gained in handling my goods, as to the wants of the trade and the tastes of consumers. Thanking myfriends for past favors so liberally bestowed, I can say, on soliciting their continuance, that I am determined that their views and wishes shall be more freely and exactly gratified in the future. Wishing you a full share of the prosperity in business apparently promised the Coast during the coming year,

J. W. SHAEFFER.
